THE FIRST.

The President reached Utah, yesterday, with some appointments, placing ARTHUR L. THOMAS in the governorship, making Colonel ELIAS SELLS secretary, and giving the surveyor-general's office to ELWORTH DODGETT. We need not say that these appointments will cause great surprise and more or less dissatisfaction. The selections are astonishing, to say the least. THOMAS was not an applicant for the executive office. He held a position worth twice as much in cash, and involving not a tenth of the labor required from the governor. He was content with his place, and not being a bidder for another was without endorsement or backing for the gubernatorial office. His appointment, therefore, is simply astonishing, and appears more so when we take into account what way done for Colonel SELLS and the expectation in regard to him. The colonel was an applicant for the governorship, and his name went to Washington supported as few have ever been. His petition was endorsed by perhaps nine out of ten of the men in the territory who have asked the place for anybody. All classes seconded him, and his recommendation was so strong that others stood aside, knowing they could make no name with him. Not only was his local backing all that could be asked by any man, but Kansas and Iowa, in both of which states he had resided, gave him powerful and influential support. Weeks ago came to THE HERALD from a very close friend of the colonel at Washington that it would be for no other man to apply for the governorship, Colonel SELLS' appointment having been practically decided upon. Notwithstanding this the colonel is relegated to an insignificant clerkship, about the least important office in the territory, with a salary of only $150 per month; while the honors and plumes of the plum which he hoped to pluck are conferred upon one who was not asking for them. Colonel SELLS, we believe, will make a good secretary, but it cannot be otherwise than humiliating to him, under the circumstances, to accept the office.

Something similar to the above occurred in the matter of the surveyor-generalship. A gentleman who desired the office went to Washington distancing all competitors in regard to endorsements, his backing being of a character to cause any man to feel proud, and which should have been sufficient to convince the administration that no better appointment could have been made. But the gentleman referred to is thrown overboard, and a man appointed who was so indifferently backed by local citizens that he was hardly thought to be in the race.

The President's first three appointments to Utah prove the truth of what has been intimated, namely, that General HARRISON cares little or nothing for local endorsements, and is disposed to appoint men who are urged for the place least by their fellow citizens. This has been said to be the President's way in dealing with other communities, and he has certainly sustained his reputation in this respect here.

We wonder what other surprises President HARRISON has in store for the Utah office-seekers and the Utah people!

When President HARRISON was inaugurated he found in the treasury department sixty-five Republicans, whose salaries aggregated $122,500, and sixty-six Democrats, whose annual pay amounted to $143,900. This was after four years of Democratic rule. HARRISON has been President two months, and there were in the treasury department last week twenty-four Democrats, whose salaries would aggregate $32,100 if the men were permitted to serve a year. As these Democrats will soon be out, however, what money they draw from the treasury during a Republican administration will neither enrich them nor pauperize the government.

THE LAND office at Blackfoot, Idaho, got new Republican officials yesterday. PHILIP J. ANSON being named for register, in place of FRANK BEATTY, and Major W. H. DARTON getting the receivership. It doesn't take a Republican administration long to ferret out the Democratic office-holders.

PECULIAR EXPLANATIONS.

In hunting for an explanation of why ARTHUR L. THOMAS was taken from the Utah commission and made governor, several supposedly intelligent politicians arrived at the conclusion reached in another place in this issue of THE HERALD, that the appointment was the result of a trade; that Prince Russell's father-in-law, ex-Governor SAUNDERS, of Nebraska, wanted a place on the commission, and in order to accommodate him Mr. THOMAS would have to give way; to avoid offending THOMAS he must be provided for, and as Colonel SELLS had not been positively promised the governorship, it would not cause much violence to his expectations to drop him to the secretaryship, make THOMAS governor, and thus make room for SAUNDERS in the commission. If the gentlemen who thought this all out had thought a little more they would have laughed at themselves and the ridiculousness of their conclusion. If Governor SAUNDERS must be made a commissioner, what more natural and more in line of partisan politics, than that one of the Democrats be removed, especially as the majority of the board are members of the Democratic party? There would have been some sense in changing the political status of the commission by the removal of CARLTON, McCLELLAN or WILLIAMS, and appointing a Republican. And again, what is THOMAS to the administration, or the administration to him that he must not be deprived of an office and salary? Because he went from short clothes into government employ and has ever since drawn pay from the national treasury, has everybody come to think that it is essential to the existence of the nation that Mr. THOMAS should hold a federal commission? Those who find in the explanation elsewhere published the reason for his appointment would certainly seem to think so.

We interpret the matter to mean that the entire Utah commission is to be changed as soon as the President can get around to it, and that the only reason why THOMAS went first was because he was wanted for the governorship. When's resignation was in the hands of HARRISON, and THOMAS' record as acting-governor and secretary was of such a character as to recommend him for the office. There was no "bargain" or "trade," for none was necessary. If the desire had been to simply find a place for SAUNDERS, a Democrat would have been named and THOMAS remained on the commission. The other commissioners and our readers may all mark it down, that a complete reorganization of the commission will occur in a very short time, and we believe the new men will all come from outside the territory.

There are mighty few persons in this territory who will shed tears over the removal of Governor WEST. He has managed to get himself more generally disliked than even his predecessor, and at one time we did not think such a thing possible. Governor MURRAY succeeded in winning and retaining the friendship of a factor, small in number, it is true, but the members were always loyal in their admiration for him, and when he was dropped they felt badly over it. Where is the man in Utah who does not, in his heart, rejoice over the downfall of Governor WEST?

W. E. CHANDLER is said to have the lead in the New Hampshire Senatorial race, but in order to win the prize he will have to capture certain votes now claimed as doubtful. CHANDLER is one of the most clever wire-pullers in the country, hence the chances in favor of his success may be set down as first-class.

A CRANK BILL.

The Massachusetts legislature now has before it—and there is some assurance that it will pass—a bill which requires the publication by political committees and candidates of a sworn statement of the amount of money expended by them for campaign purposes. These statements are to be made out, sworn to and published immediately following the election. It provides that every political committee, district, town, city or state, which expends in a campaign over $100, shall have a treasurer, and through his hands all money received or expended shall pass; he must keep a detailed account of the receipts, and a record of the expenditures, and file with the secretary of the commonwealth a return setting forth all of the committee's receipts, and a detailed statement of all its expenditures and disbursements. Every member of the committee who receives or disburses money must give a detailed account to the treasurer who must also include this in his report. Within ten days after election the successful candidate for any office, congressional, state, county or municipal, must file with the secretary of state a detailed statement of the money contributed, disbursed and expended by him in attempting to secure, or in any manner in connection with, his nomination or election to such office, provided that all such money shall exceed in the aggregate one hundred dollars. The expenditure of money to influence the action of a caucus or convention, the result of an election, or the vote of any person in caucus, convention or election, is declared a misdemeanor, though the candidate may cause to be circulated printed matter.

It is hardly necessary to remark that the bill is a Mugwump measure. Only vain and impractical men would attempt to cure election evils by such a law, and men who entertain proper regard for the rights of individuals would never think of interfering in this way with the affairs of citizens. The almost ill-fated measure like the one proposed becomes at once apparent upon examination of the bill. Neither the committee nor the candidate could be induced to report a criminal expenditure of money any more than the man who buys votes can be coaxed into confessing the fact in order to get himself into prison. But the principle of the bill is wrong. It is the concern of the law to punish for bribery and corruption, but it is not the affair of the state how a man employs his money, so long as he does not employ it criminally. If the candidate wants to hire orators, buy space in newspapers, employ bands or do other legitimate things connected with a campaign, it is none of the business of the state nor of the public, and it is unjust and impudent to require him to expose his private affairs to the community, to tell what he paid this speaker or that editor, how much it cost him for dinners and refreshments, and so on.

If some of the political cranks could have their way there would be mighty few liberties left to the individual in this country. The state would exercise a censorship over the citizen more intolerable than that which oppresses people of the old world.

Long-Standing

Blood Diseases are cured by the persevering use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

This medicine is an Alternative, and causes a radical change in the system. The process, in some cases, may not be quite so rapid as in others; but, with persistence, the result is certain. Read these testimonials:— "For two years I suffered from a severe pain in my right side, and half other troubles caused by a torpid liver and dyspepsia. After giving several medicines a fair trial without a cure, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was greatly benefited by the first bottle, and after taking five bottles I was completely cured."—John W. Benson, 70 Lawrence St., Lowell, Mass.

Last May a large carbuncle broke out on my arm. The usual remedies had no effect and I was confined to my bed for eight weeks. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than three bottles healed the sore. In all my experience with medicine, I never saw more Wonderful Results.

Another marked effect of the use of this medicine was the strengthening of my sight."—Mrs. Carrie Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

"I had a dry scaly humor for years, and suffered terribly; and as my brother and sister were similarly afflicted, I presume the malady is hereditary. Last winter, Dr. Fyfe (of Pennsylvania) recommended me to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and continue it for a year. For five months I took it daily. I have not had a blemish upon my body for the last three months."—T. E. Wiley, 145 Chambers St., New York City.

"Last fall and winter I was troubled with a dull, heavy pain in my side. I did not notice it much at first, but it gradually grew worse until it became almost unbearable. During the latter part of this time, disorders of the stomach and liver increased my troubles. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after faithfully continuing the use of this medicine for some months, the pain disappeared and I was completely cured."—Mrs. Augusta A. Furbush, Haverhill, Mass.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla, PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $3 a bottle.
